You will find that as a mid-level or upper-level manager in law enforcement, detention, fire-rescue or public safety, this program will challenge your leadership competencies. You will participate in engaging class discussions, group exercises, self-assessments, and case studies delivered by university professors and public safety practitioners.

Who this program is geared for?
For mid-level to upper-level public safety managers who are top performers and posses advancement capabilities.

When & Where are classes held?
Classes are conducted at Nova Southeastern University at the Davie, Florida campus, every Wednesday from January 15 to May 14, 2014.

Applications are being accepted along with a command level recommendation, the completed application form, and a check for $1,995 made payable to the Sheriff’s Foundation of Broward County. Due to the expectation that participants will be submitting graduate-level work, preference will be given to mid-level and upper-level managers with some college.
